

United States District Court
Middle District of Florida
Jacksonville Division

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

v.

No. 3: ____-J- _____

Defendant.

Consent to Sentencing by Video Teleconferencing or Telephone Conferencing

Because of the national emergency created by the novel coronavirus, the court has found that no one can be sentenced in person in the courthouse without serious jeopardy to public health and safety.

The judge therefore can delay my sentencing hearing. But if the judge finds a delay in my case will cause serious harm to the interests of justice, the judge can conduct my sentencing hearing by video teleconferencing (or telephone conferencing if video teleconferencing is not reasonably available) if I consent after talking to my lawyer.

I understand that I may insist the judge sentence me with me present and in person when it is safe to do so. But after talking to my lawyer, I consent to having the judge sentence me by video teleconferencing (or by telephone conferencing if video teleconferencing is not reasonably available).

I am voluntarily consenting. No one has forced me, threatened me, coerced me, intimidated me, or promised me anything to get me to provide this consent. I am getting no benefit from this consent except a sooner date for the judge to sentence me.
